White Meat

Since I read my first copy of Knave around five years ago I don't think I've missed a single issue, proof if any were needed, that you run a good magazine. Many times you have printed letters from white women relating of their affairs with black men and conversely a goodly number from coloured men giving their side of the story. But Mr Editor, am I correct in saying that you have never once printed a letter from a coloured girl spelling out her romance with a white man? You'll know best but I think I am right.

So there are no prizes for guessing that I am a black girl and that I've been getting screwed by a gorgeous white stud and here is my story to prove it.

My name is Patti (short for Patricia), I'm 25 and have been married for upwards of four years. But sad to say he's turned out to be a wrong 'un and actually the last three years have been really miserable ones — maybe one of the reasons why I fell so heavily for the guy I'm going to tell you about.

Ever since I left school I've worked in the office of a small engineering firm that has a factory on a local trading estate. There are six of us girls on the Admin side and around 100 men on the shop floor. My own particular job is accounts — wages, salaries, tax, pensions and the like. We work a five day week but every sixth Saturday one of us will go in for a few hours mainly to see if there is any important mail, take incoming phone calls, attempt to tackle queries from customers and so on. It's no hardship, there's a bonus you see, for it's usually the only opportunity we get to see and to work with the boss's son, Mark.

We all simply drool over him, and that's from Mary the Senior Clerk downwards, and she's in her 50's! Honest he's just gorgeous; tall, dark and ruggedly handsome with lovely dark brown eyes, weighing in at all of 14 stone and sporting a superb physique. Oh yes, rumour has it (and I can confirm it as a fact now) that he is, to coin a phrase often used in your mag, 'hung like a stallion'. Which reminds me, may I lay myth to rest once and for all? Black mens' cocks!! My husband is Clem, before him there were five other black guys in my young life, not one of whom could give me more than seven inches, and then along came Mark!

During the week we rarely have a sighting of Mark — he is no office type and is always here, there and everywhere organising completed contracts and seeking out new ones, which is why on Saturdays he catches up on his paper work. Three weeks ago was my turn to go in and as usual I fell over backwards to be extra smart, all for Mark's benefit of course — make-up, clothes, high heels, painted nails, my best perfume and sheer stockings. Not tarty you understand, sexy perhaps, but not tartish.

On the Friday night Clem and I had a terrible set-to. He has been horrible and beastly to me many times but this was the daddy of them all, right from out of the blue he told me he was off with some of his mates for the weekend with the excuse being that the local football team were playing a big match away from home. That Saturday morning I was feeling miserable, frustrated and really down in the dumps. Anyway Clem was off early and I got to thinking of Mark, how different he was to my Clem, and I don't mean being white as against black. It began to dawn on me that I was ripe for romance and in the mood for a spot of mild flirtation so I thought, go on Pattie, flaunt your good points, let him see you have a nice bum, a good pair of legs and ripe, firm tits!

I spotted Mark's car in the yard but there was no sign of him in the office so I assumed he'd be in the factory. I opened the mail, there was little of importance so I just put it into Mr Grant's in-tray (he's the boss and a gem to us girls). Ten minutes later he came breezing in. His face lit up when he saw me and at once he was into the blarney, "Ah my very own Patti, my beautiful Patti, the girl of my dreams, delicious, delectable, very desirable and charming, chic and very, very cuddly." I just had to laugh out loud, I glanced up at him and my heart went pit-a-pat and my poor tummy turned over, he was man, ALL MAN. In a short-sleeved shirt and an old casual pair of slacks and brown shoes. The shirt was open to his waist and for the first time I realised how hairy he was — really dense on his broad, deep chest and thick on his forearms. I still hadn't got over my row with Clem but I tried to look happier than I felt with a sort of chirpy, "Good morning Mr Grant, I saw your car, you must have been in the factory?"

He was stood behind me and put his hands on my shoulders, "Now Patti, what's the rule on Saturdays? Forget the 'Mr Grants' — it's Mark, O.K." I smiled up at him, "Yes, sir . . . I mean Mark." He went on to tell me of a phone call he was expecting, confirmation he hoped that we had landed a really big contract. "Would that be Jewsons, Mark?" I asked and he nodded.

He was still standing behind me but his fingers were now spread out and he was sort of kneading and massaging my shoulders with them, his touch was like magic and

A man goes to his doctor and says, "Doctor, I've got terrible itching between my legs. Can you help me?"

"Drop your trousers lad," commanded the doc.

After a short examination, the doctor declared, "You've got crabs!"

"Crabs! God! Can you do anything about them?"

"Here's a prescription," the doc said as he handed it to the chap.

"Caster sugar, 11lb?"

"Yes, rub that into your pubic hair twice a day."

"That won't cure them!"

"It won't cure them, but all their teeth will drop out, and when they bite you, you won't feel a thing."

I went all gooey and weak at the knees. "I like your dress Patti, very, dare I say it, very figure revealing . . ." he leaned over me and had a better look, " . . . yes Patti . . . very, very figure revealing . . . for your husband's benefit I presume . . ." Again a pause before he added, " . . . Or mine perhaps, I hope?"

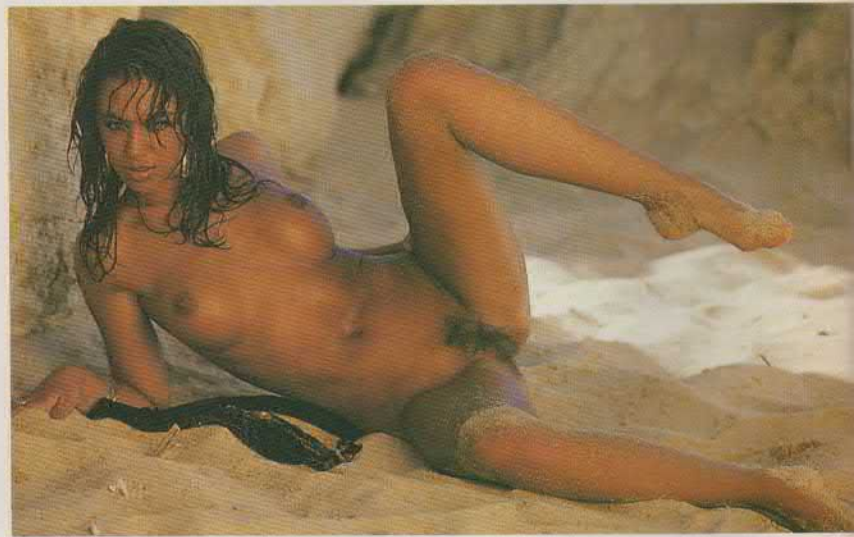

Ella

Oh beautiful girl on the beach. I've never met you, but here I am, admiring you from afar. And I'm wondering what you're like. Do you have any funny habits? Do you nail on the first date? No, no, I'm sure you're the romantic sort. Dinner for two, candlelight, music, a quick peck on the cheek and then home to bed. Alone. Ella, I've gone off you already. See ya.

I think my face must have said it all. A lump came to my throat and I found myself resting my cheek on his hand. It all came out in a rush and he listened to my tale of woe without saying a single

For the first time in their history the sailors were being inspected by a female officer, a particularly curvaceous one at that.

In fact, one of the sailors had been without a woman for so long that he got an immediate full throbbing hard on as soon as she stood opposite him to inspect his uniform.

"And what do you call that bulge in your trousers able seaman Jones?" she enquired.

"I suppose you could call it a one gun salute?" he replied.

word. Then when I stopped and the tears weren't far away I sensed his fingers tighten their grip on my shoulders and he was saying very softly, "Your Clem must be a fool Patti, a bloody fool, if you were mine I wouldn't let you out of my sight." He seemed to take a deep breath then his hands were on my arms and he was pulling me to my feet and turning me round to face him all at the same time. He leaned against my desk and moved his hands to my hips and pulled me . . . unresistingly, towards him. His voice was almost hoarse, "So help me Patti . . . but I wouldn't let you stray from my bed either." And with that I was in his arms and we were away.

First of all we kissed, and oh how we kissed. For a few seconds it was soft, gentle and tender, then our need and our passion took over and it became lust; pure and simple lust. My mouth was wide open and as I sucked on his tongue he was doing the same to mine. He was pushing me onto my back over the surface of my desk . . . my own hands fluttered to his head and neck but his were everywhere . . . and his mouth and lips also. My legs were wide apart and he was lying between them, in seconds my dress was round my waist. My head was cradled in one of his arms and I heard myself murmuring, "Oh Mark darling . . . oh Mark darling," at what his other hand was doing. One moment gliding up my thighs and over my tummy and the next fluttering over my breasts; he was opening buttons and I was gasping, "Oh yes, oh yes," as he began to cup my tits through my bra and his thumb flickered over my nipples. I felt his hand on my belly and his fingers on my panties. I drew my legs and thighs up and crossed them over his hips. I could feel his cock pressing into my crotch, he was hard and he was big, very big. I raised my cunt up onto it, I could feel it throbbing. And that's when the blankety phone rang.

Initially of course there was the frustration as with a curse Mark was off me and dashed into his own office. A moment later I followed him and it was obvious that it was Ken Jewson he was talking to with the news that he'd been hoping for. Mark's pleasure was obvious and his enthusiasm must have been infectious for from right out of nowhere the devil in me took over.

He was sat on the edge of his desk, facing me. I started by moving up to him in a sort of sensuous glide, stroking my hands over my belly and up to my breasts, all the time swaying my thighs and hips seductively. Then when I was barely a foot away from him and making goo goo eyes and blowing him kisses, I hummed the tune 'The Stripper' very softly and did just that — I did a strip-tease for him. I pulled my dress zip down and slithered it over my hips to my feet. Then I slid my panties down my legs, let them dangle on one ankle for a second before kicking

I kept my breasts till last. I may sound boastful but I know I have excellent tits and I'm proud of them. They are 38's and they are full, but most of all, they jut out and up to quite large golden-brown nipples. The admiration in his eyes was lovely to see. Just for a moment he covered the phone mouthpiece and almost grunted, "Patti, Patti . . . you're beautiful . . . so beautiful." So I moved in close, and taking his free hand I placed it on one of my boobs. I whispered, "Shall I take my stocking off darling?" His composure was quite something, still talking to 'Ken' he shook his head to tell me, "No."

If he thought I was through, he was in for a big surprise because I still had my ace to play. You see I started to strip him. I began with his shirt and in no time at all I had it off his back and then, and my heart was going twenty to the dozen, my hands went to his belt. I pulled it free and now the adrenalin was really flowing. I went down before him, the huge bulge of his cock was but inches from my face. I leaned towards him and kissed his prick through his trousers. I could feel it jerk under my lips and I knew then he was very, very big. I looked up at him and breathed the words, "I love you Mark." I ran one hand up and down his cock feeling it throb in my fingers even through his slacks, the other hand moved to the tag of his zip. Above me I heard his gasp, "When I'm through here you're going to get a fucking you'll never forget, I'll screw the arse off you." My eyes were twinkling with merriment as I mouthed up to him, "Promises, promises!"

Then almost in one movement I had him naked before me and his slacks, boxers, socks and shoes were with my dress, bra and panties. His cock came up thick, long and fully erect to almost thwack onto his belly. I stood back to survey my handiwork. I just drooled, he was all my dreams come true; the broad span of his shoulders, the depth of his chest, the flat stomach and sturdy thighs. And all that hair, none of the other men in my life had been hairy, and I found Mark's abundance of it very exciting. It was thick on his arms, upper thighs, belly and a veritable forest grew on his chest. And then, of course, his cock, and those balls! I just stared, mesmerised by its, well, by its hugeness (later that morning I was to measure it with a dressmaker's tape I keep in my desk — 10 and half inches long and almost six inches around its girth).

There were two things I wanted to do right then. First I moved up to him and flattened my body to his own. He was talking to Ken and once more I marvelled at his control. His only gesture of emotion as I took his cock in my two hands and rubbed my nipples across the black pelt of his chest hair was to put his right hand on my bum and pull me in tighter. I breathed into his right ear, "I want to be fucked Mark..." I gave his prick a squeeze, "I want this up me, all the way darling, it's so big Mark, it's so thick, it's so long, it's so hard, it's beautiful, beautiful, beautiful, hurry up, please hurry up, I'm so wet, feel me Mark, feel me." I spread my legs, his hand was between my thighs and I gasped as he sank a finger deep into my cunt.

And still he carried on with his conversation. I won in the end though. His chest hair was tickling my nipples as I poked my tongue into his ear and pouted, "I'm going to suck you darling, I'm going to gobble your cock." I felt him stiffen, his body and his prick, then as I slipped to my knees I heard him say into the phone, "Just a moment Ken..." To me he growled, "Don't Patti... don't you dare... don't you dare."

But I did dare as, on my knees, I did wonderful things to his cock with my hands and mouth, my lips and my tongue. The great knob was purple and I ran my tongue around the ridge, I slid the head of his cock into my mouth and sucked. I wanted to take him in deeper but he was too thick and I was quickly gagging. I put the tip of my tongue into his little slit and I kissed my way up and down the pulsing heavy vein that ran along the top of his cock. His balls were so full and heavy in my hands. I gave them a tiny squeeze and that's when he put the phone down with a final, "Thanks again Ken... I'll see you on Monday, my secretary's just come in, wants me to do something for her, says it can't wait, needs my urgent attention, so long Ken."

When I was young, me dad said to me, "Don't go to Soho 'cos you might see something you shouldn't."

So I went, and I saw something I shouldn't have. Me dad!

desk. He just grabbed me, spun me round, he had one hand in my hair and pulled my head up — the lust in his face was almost scary but I knew I'd asked for all I was going to get. He was between my parted thighs, he had his cock in one fist and moved that bloated knob to my cunt. Just for a second he was still, he took his hand from his cock and grabbed hold of my tits with it, he pressed them hard and then as he rammed that them — seven times, I felt his cock thrust and spurt out its spunk, thrust and spurt, the jets of his come spattered inside me. The last burst was as fierce as the first and when it was over he kept his cock deep in me, he was still rock hard and thick and long. But he was nibbling my ear, "Right Patti, sexy, cock happy Patti, that's what you wanted, you asked for it, you've had it, and now I'll show you what loving and fucking is all about."

What a wonderful day that was, so tender and so satisfying. He screwed me for all of half an hour on a thick pile rug. But there was more (and still is) than just a fucking. The foreplay, the wondrous things he did to me with his hands and his lips. Every girl loves to be told she is beautiful, sexy and desirable, and has a glorious figure. I've already spoken of my breasts. Since that first day

Our first fuck was fast and furious. It couldn't have lasted much more than a minute and it was with me face down over his wonderful cock up to his balls with one savage thrust. I screamed with joy. In seconds I was climaxing... it was sensational in its intensity. I was boiling hot and it swept through me in wave upon wave. At its peak I was awash with a feeling I'd never known before, my legs were weak, my tummy was on fire, my breasts were bursting and my nipples were throbbingly huge. Half a minute later and he came himself. He had a hand on each of my hips. For a moment he was still, then seven times — I counted

Mark must have spent hours doing such lovely things to me, his lips on my nipples and his hands all over them, cupping, lifting and rolling. Ooh, just writing this gets me going. And as for me, well how many girls have 10 and a half inches of cock to call their own.

So there you have it. Black is beautiful the saying goes. In my book white is as well, and you should hear my Mark wax lyrical about his 'brown bird'. — P.L., Croydon.

HANNAH

Good morning, here's Hannah from Louisiana. A corking, filly, don'tcha think? I oft think back to the days when I was young enough to appreciate a gal like her. Yes, in my prime, when I was forty seven, I used to be pulling my peggo like nobody's business. Yes siree, polishin' and masturbating for all I was worth. I used to have the odd shag as well. Nowadays, nothing! I envy you whippersnappers. I really do.

DARK AND DEADLY

Imagine a snarling, frenzied, bare-breasted warrior woman rushing out at you from the jungle and hacking off your privates with an 18 inch sword. Frightening, isn't it? Well this was the reality faced by enemies of the Dahomey tribe, whose army was made-up of such fearsome boilers. Tom Newman reveals the chilling facts concerning these dreaded gals that make your mum in law look like Sister Theresa!

Richard Burton, explorer and translator of oriental pornography, was greatly impressed by them. "Savage as gorillas," he remembered, "more cruel by far than their men." John Duncan, ex Life Guards, said they attacked like a pack of hounds, handled their guns as well as any grenadier, and if he had to choose between leading them or their menfolk into battle he knew which he'd go for: "I should prefer the females to the male soldiers of this country." As for the men of the tribe, it was an old African joke that more of them lost their lives trying to fuck these women than died on the battlefield. The women that so impressed these white and black men were the Amazons of Dahomey, the only authenticated case of warrior women in the world.

The first that Westerners heard of this bizarre army was from Captain William Snelgrave. Sailing the Gold Coast of West Africa around 1730, looking for slaves, he received an invitation from the King of Dahomey, the most powerful chieftain in the region. Carried in a hammock by six black servants, he set out into the equatorial forest, pausing only on the outside of the tribal capital to change into his finest clothes. The King's chief courtier received the white man with respect, and they retired to a hut for a lunch of cold ham and fowls. Snelgrave complained of the flies, great swarms of them settling on his food while he ate. The reason for this plague was soon revealed. As he approached the King's Gate for his first beads around their neck and in their hair. They were members of the King's elite bodyguard, composed exclusively of women.

Captain Snelgrave stayed on long enough to hear the origin of these women warriors. In the endless wars fought between the African tribes to obtain slaves to sell to the Europeans and Arabs, the King of Dahomey was over a hundred years later before another Briton witnessed the truth.

By 1850, the British Empire was now against slavery and Frederick Forbes sailed the Gold Coast determined to blow any slave-trader out of the sea. Hearing rumours of the outrageous customs of the King of Dahomey, he set ashore to stop that as well. With a small unit of marines, enough to deal with any tiresome Blackamoors, he pushed into the jungle for the Dahomey capital. The sight that greeted him was sufficient to make him think again. Before Forbes and the King of Dahomey, a total of 2,400 women warriors par-interview with the Dahomeyan monarch, he saw two stages piled high with human heads — the rotting trophies of 4,000 enemy tribesmen sacrificed to the war god of Dahomey. A shade nervous, the European was then introduced to the King, instigator of so much ritual slaughter. Sitting on the gilt throne, the King was surrounded by women. Three held large umbrellas over his head. A further four stood behind him, carrying flintlock muskets on their shoulders. They were naked from the waist upwards, wearing gold rings around their arms and had begun to lose too many of his men and decided to replace them with women. They were to be placed at the back of the army so his enemy could not detect the losses, but when the two armies clashed, it was the women who proved to be the superior fighters, scaring the hell out of the enemy with their long serrated knives aimed at the vital regions of any men standing in their way. Captain Snelgrave left the Gold Coast with this story and promptly wrote it up, but everyone believed it was yet another tall tale from the tropics as daft as the rest. It aded fully armed. Leading Amazons stepped forward to make oaths of defiance.

"When the Attahpahms heard we were advancing, they ran away," said one. "If we go to war and any of us return not conquerors, let them die! If I retreat, my life is at the King's mercy. Whatever the town to be attacked, we will conquer, or bury ourselves in its ruins!"

Another women officer announced that her warriors had never been known to turn their backs on the enemy and if anyone could contradict this then they should say so. A male officer next to the King, made uncomfortable by all this female bragging, was about to contradict when a witchdoctor leapt up and warned him: "That woman is fetish, you are not. You must not interfere with her."

Finally, the chief of all the Amazons stepped before her King. "A cask of rum cannot roll itself," she said.

"A table only becomes useful when something is placed on it. The Dahomeyan army without the Amazons are as both. Spitting makes the belly more comfortable, and the outstretched hand will be the receiving one. So we ask you for war, that our bellies may have their desire, and our hands be filled."

Forbes noted their armament and ranks. The Agbaraya were armed with fat blunderbusses and were the veterans of the army, only called into action when urgently needed. They were the biggest and strongest of the women and each was accompanied by a girl attendant carrying ammunition. They wore blue tunics and their standards were the most ferocious, bearing images of a figure cutting an enemy to pieces, or blowing him apart with a musket shot. The Gbeto were reputed to be the bravest warriors and carried out dangerous hunting expeditions, many bearing the ferocious scars of close encounters with wounded elephants. The Nyekpleh-hentoh, or Razor Women, were noted for their special hatred of the enemy's leader. They carried a hinged sword about 18 inches long that shut into its scabbard like a razor and was used for decapitation. The Gulonentoh were musketeers who formed the majority of the army. A fifth type of warrior, the Gohento, were mainly young girls equipped with a box, a quiver of poisoned, light cane arrows and a small knife strapped to their wrist. They were rarely employed in combat, but used as scouts and porters.

After the parade, Forbes was invited to view a sham fight between the Amazons and prisoners from a previous campaign. This was then followed by dancing in which the women warriors, eyes dilated, moved their hands in a sawlike manner culminating in a twist. This, Forbes was told, was the motion they practised for cutting off an enemy's head. Forbes commented politely and then told his men quietly to shoulder their arms and march back to the coast. He had seen enough. This was not a conflict the British Empire could enter into. He had never heard of anything like it in his life. The King of Dahomey, apparently, each year issued a decree summoning every subject to present their daughters to him. From them, he chose the most promising teenage girls to serve as officers, whilst the others became ordinary soldiers. The majority of the Amazons were required to remain celibate, living in separate barracks with eunuch guards. If ever a girl transgressed this code, then she and her lover were executed and hung naked, legs spread, from a pole in the middle of the village until they rotted. The best looking Amazons, however, led a force of 150 French marines and 800 Foreign Legionnaires, plus 1,500 Senegalese riflemen and 300 Houssas under French meyan force opposing Dodds was estimated at 12,000 strong, consisting of 2,000 elite Amazons, 5,000 ordinary male warriors, and were reserved as concubines for the King and called Leopard Wives. Such a military force was beyond Forbes' comprehension, and was definitely one Queen Victoria should stay well clear of. The British, therefore, left the King of Dahomey to get on with whatever depraved lifestyle he wished. The French were not so tolerant.

By 1890, the French had expanded their interests along the Gold Coast. Behanzin, the new King of Dahomey, tried to raise taxes on these French trading posts, but the French told him where to go and repulsed a small raiding force. Behanzin realised his army needed the latest European weaponry and set about buying breech-loading rifles and artillery. At last, in 1892, he believed he was ready for a second clash with the French. Rifles were issued to his male and female warriors. It was to be the greatest military test for the Dahomey Amazons.

In spring 1892, Behanzin attacked the trading post at Porto Novo on the coast. The French retaliated by sending a small army under the command of Colonel Dodds, a French officer descended from an English trader. He had previously served in the upper Senegal and western Sudan and was used to African warfare. He officers. A company of engineers, a battery of mountain artillery, some cavalry, a transport and ambulance detachment, and a river boat armed with machine guns completed the army, totally just under 3,500 men. The Daho-

5,000 armed slaves. Behanzin had bought them modern rifles, machine guns, and artillery from traders at Whydah.

On 17 August, Colonel Dodds began his march into the interior. His orders provided not only for the defence of Porto Novo, but recommended the destruction of the Dahomeyan kingdom once and for all. This meant a trek of over 70 miles from the coast to Abomey, the native capital. Dodds decided to advance along the River Oueme so his gunboat Opale could protect his men as well as carrying supplies. Leaving a sizeable garrison in Porto Novo, he led 2,000 soldiers plus 2,000 native porters in a laborious advance across swampland and through raid-sodden bush. Behanzin shadowed the invaders, but preserved his best warriors — the Amazons — for the battle to come.

It took two months to reach the River Koto, some 12 miles south-east of Abomey. There had been several skirmishes and the riverboat Opale was forced to retreat because of the Dahomeyan artillery. French scouts pushed on through the densely knotted vegetation at the side of the river and in the distance they could see the huts of the King's palace at Kotopa. On the slope beyond the river, they also saw a triple line of entrenchments, with guns sited on higher ground above them. Dodds decided to keep the attention of the Dahomeyan position while sending the majority of this army northwards about three thousand yards and then crossing the river so as to advance around the African defences. The battle began with the diversionary shots of two French mountain guns. The Dahomey replied with accurate shooting, but their ammunition was of poor quality (the traders had stiffed them) and did not explode on impact. Nevertheless, the solid shot forced the French artillery to retreat.

In the meantime, the majority of Dodd's force was hacking its way through the bush along the river. Dahomeyan scouts were fully aware of the Frenchmen's strategy and a contingent of Amazons rapidly advanced to meet them. The Amazons were armed with the finest breech-loading rifles and began to pick off the Frenchmen as they descended into the tangled foliage beside the river. Many of the Amazons were expert hunters and to their deadly accuracy they added the frightening power of exploding bullets, usually reserved for shooting elephants. The French were forced back up the side of the river valley. It was the most serious situation Dodds had ever faced. The water supply of his men was running short and he could not force his way across the river. Emboldened by their success, the warrior women advanced out of the bush, using giant anthills as cover. At one time, they tried to rush the French position, but were met with a fierce volley. Reluctantly, Dodds admitted defeat and sent his men back to their main camp.

For a week, the two adversaries glared at each other across the River Koto. While Dodds awaited reinforcements, the Dahomey attacked the camp. They were repulsed with heavy losses. Dodds decided to turn the other wing of the Dahomeyan position and moved south-west. As he began to lose his whereabouts in the dense jungle, Dodds received news of a truce from Behanzin. Perhaps because he was suffering greater losses than the French imagined, the Dahomeyan King had evacuated his position at Kotopa in order to bring about peace. Dodds returned to camp and the next day sent his men across the main bridge on the Koto. As the head of hand fighting, the French battled with female and male warriors from trench to trench. In just half an hour, the resolve of the Dahomeyan warriors was broken and the French captured the lines at Kotopa. It slaves who had been promised their freedom as a reward for victory. Half-drunk with gin and rum, they desperately threw themselves at the French square. The repeating rifles killed them effortlessly. On

Within a few weeks, Behanzin was captured. With his downfall, the ancient kingdom of Dahomey ceased to exist and with it the extraordinary tradition of the Amazons. The land and its people was the turning-point of the campaign.

From then on, the fighting was bitter and relentless. Warrior women, vowing death or glory to their King, plunged out of the jungle, wielding razor

15 November, having just been promoted to the rank of general, Dodds advanced the final miles towards Abomey. As his vanguard marched through the cultivated land on the outskirts of the tribal city, a series of were now part of the French empire and there was no place for an army of women warriors. The system was abolished and the women returned to their domestic roles of wives and lovers, but how successful they were at putting down their weapons, after a lifetime of military success and the odd decapitation, is known only by the men of these Leopard Wives and no record survives of that. Perhaps it's time to send another expedition along the Gold Coast to find out if any of these warrior women exist and if so how best to tame them for a photoset in this magazine. I think the editor could be tempted — just so long as his valuables were armoured against their Razor Swords!

the column passed on to the bridge, a mighty fusillade of rifles and artillery raked the French army. Furious at this Dahomeyan treachery, the French fixed bayonets and rushed on them. In ferocious hand-to-swords and axes, but the French had command of the bush and took their time closing upon Abomey. In a final conflict at Yakue, the main Dahomeyan attack was launched by hundreds of prisoners and explosions rent the air. A dense cloud of smoke rose from the buildings of the capital. Behanzin, fleeing to the north, had destroyed his city rather than let it fall into the hands of the French.

Diana

All the way from Detroit, Michigan, comes Diana. Motown they call it. Home of the hits, of stars 'n' cars. Well, lookin' at Diana, I'd say it was home of the tits! And as far as automobiles go, I'd really like to get my hands around Diana's bumpers. Yeah, she's a real mover and groover. Spinning and hurtling into the sexual stratosphere at a million miles an hour, singing and squelching all the way. Go, go, go. Ejaculate now before she disappears off the page . . .

Video Kicks

As a long time reader of Penpower, I have been eagerly awaiting an experience worthy of your pages. My faith in there being truth behind the stories was finally rewarded, as I will now describe!

Having been waiting for a decent situation to drop in my lap for some time now, I had almost given up hope, but almost immediately I struck it lucky. I am an engineering apprentice and live in a hostel full of a mix of people about my age (23), so there are always plenty of opportunities that I thought I might be able to turn to my advantage. Anyway, one week a friend of mine had brought a German Porno flick up for me to watch, so we popped down to the communal TV room to watch it. As it was around eleven o'clock everyone else was still out at the pub. We got the video set up and just as we were about to start it up, when two of the girls that lived there came in. We told them we were just watching TV. They wanted to watch a video so we reluctantly said OK. Cindy, the girl with the video, went to put it in the machine and found that our one was already there. They then insisted that we watch ours first, and settled down to watch. At first we were a bit pissed off about this situation but then we thought what the hell, it might loosen them up a bit! So we cut the lights and started the video.

The girls could hardly believe their eyes, there were all sort of things going on. While they were glued to the screen, Ian and me checked out their body language. Cindy's mouth had dropped open, but the rigid outline of her nipples gave away her true feelings. Jane was nowhere near as inhibited as Cindy and was rubbing her hand furiously against her pussy, a damp patch was already appearing between her legs. I signalled to Ian and we moved in on them, Ian's head disappeared between Jane's legs. I pressed Cindy gently back into the chair, while my hands stroked her nipples. As my caresses continued she began to thrust herself towards me, and I gently rolled her onto the floor. She desperately threw herself against me and I quickly stripped off her remaining clothing. As I got undressed she was trying to pleasure herself, she had two fingers buried in her cunt and her other hand seemed determined to twist off her nipples. She pulled me towards her and I edged up until I could thrust my dick into her eager mouth. She closed her lips around me and proceeded to lick and suck me, her energy making up for her inexperience. I managed to survive this onslaught for a couple of minutes but by then I had greater ambitions, as it was obvious that this girl was going to stop at nothing to turn us both on!

I removed myself from her mouth just in time and moved down to her breasts. I sucked and licked them until Cindy was almost going mad, and then slipped my dick between them. It fitted beautifully in between them and she pressed her breasts together around it. I slowed the pace down a bit now and let her do most of the work. After I had managed to calm myself down, I decided it was time to go further and I moved off her and turned her over onto her front. Just the sight of her almost hairless pussy-lips got to me more than I thought was possible and I pulled her bum up to meet my rock hard dick, I slipped it into her pussy. I beat into her with a furious speed and in seconds we both came, she came first but her excitement set me off and we both collapsed, exhausted. Meanwhile Ian and Jane were still going strong but as soon as they saw that we had stopped and were watching them it seemed to give them a little extra kick and they both climaxed almost together, Jane's nails leaving big trails on Ian's back! Ever since our little escapade my every non-working moment is spent with Cindy and we enjoy 10 hours sex per day!! I certainly never thought my apprenticeship would lead to basic training in this subject. — A.L., Herts.

I Saw A Lady And She Was Naked!

When Judy and I got married, a close family friend, Joe, offered to let us live in his house rent free, so we could save for a place of our own. At first I was reluctant to accept his kind offer, I was afraid that the lack of privacy would put a strain on our relationship. After all, Judy was used to the freedom of her rented flat and was in the habit of walking around half naked. Her little roof patio was constructed in such a way that we were able to lay naked together and even make love without having to worry about prying eyes. But we were keen to save, so we decided to give it a go.

Joe had a job that took him away for several days or weeks at

BIDDY

Remember Buddy Holly? Well, this is Biddy Holly.

She's no relation but there are similarities. Namely, that both Biddy and Buddy wear glasses. 'Course, there are differences as well. F'rinstance, old Buddy's dead as my cock after twelve straight hours of hard shagging, whilst Biddy is fine and well. But the point is that they both make beautiful music — but not together! Er, that's it really. Bye.

a time, and he had lived on his own for as long as I could remember. He was working away for the first three weeks after we moved in, and we were able to settle in and make the place our home. The weather was hot and sunny and Judy soon found that the small lawn outside the kitchen door was private enough for her to continue her nude sunbathing.

A man went into a pub and ordered a triple rum.

No sooner had the barman placed the glass on the bar in front of the man and taken his money, a monkey appeared from nowhere and urinated in the man's drink. Then the monkey disappeared.

The customer left his drink and ordered another triple rum. The man paid for it and the barman placed his drink on the bar in front of him, when all of a sudden the same monkey appeared and pissed in the guy's drink and disappeared.

This happened a third time, and the customer lost his temper. "Listen barman, you're going to have to sort that bloody monkey out. I'm not sticking this again."

"You'll have to speak to the pianist over there in the corner," said the barman pointing. "It's nothing to do with me." So the angry man went up to the pianist and said, "Do you know your bloody monkey's just pissed in my triple rum three times?"

"No," replied the pianist, "but if you hum a few bars I might be able to play it by ear."

Before long she was back in the habit of walking round the house in just her tiny panties. One day I heard her shriek and she came charging back into the bedroom saying that Joe was back home. Before I could get dressed, Joe knocked on our door and asked if he could have a word with us.

Five minutes later we were both sitting in the kitchen sipping tea and listening to Joe reading us the riot act, he was nice, but firm, "I told you both to make yourselves at home, and I meant it, walk round the house naked all day if you want, I don't mind. BUT I don't want to feel awkward in my own home, squealing and running off when I appear is just not on, I live here too, so please get used to that."

We apologised of course and explained that we had not expected him back until the following day. When we were back in the bedroom I was strangely excited, I pulled Judy onto the bed and was soon making love to her. "You're shaking, are you turned on that he saw me like that?" Judy giggled.

"Yes, yes," I grunted, as I thrust my throbbing cock into her tight soft pussy, "tell me what you were wearing." "You know, just my panties," she replied with another giggle.

She didn't seem to be taking it as seriously as I wanted her to, so I encouraged her to elaborate. "O.K.," she replied, "I didn't realise Joe was back home. As I walked into the kitchen he was sitting at the table, he said, 'good morning,' and I nearly jumped out of my skin. He must have had a good look at my breasts, and my panties hardly covered my pubes so he could probably see through them."

I groaned as I reached a fantastic climax and collapsed on top of her, she was still not sure how to accept the fact that the incident had turned me on so much, and we sat talking about it for several minutes afterwards. "Why did HIM seeing me turn you on?" she asked, still amused.

"I don't know, I can't explain that, but as you told me about it, I felt I was going to come all night. I never felt so randy before, but I don't know why, does it bother you?" I said. "No, if you make love to me like that every time, I am quite happy to let him catch me naked again, I can't see him complaining either from the way he looked at me!" she replied.

me lying here. I could pretend I was sleeping and he would be able to stand there and stare at me as long as he wanted, I could slowly move my legs apart and let him gaze at my pussy. Do you think his

"Well now, what seems to be the problem?"

I pulled her to me again and we were soon screwing like mad as I made her tell me all the details again. Joe had some business meetings for the next few days and so we didn't see much of him, but just the thought of him seeing Judy cock would be hard, throbbing and wanting to be inside me? Do you think he is bigger than you? Would you still love me, if you came home and I told you I had let him have me?" We always ended these fantasy escapes with a fantastic screwing session, and we were more in love then I ever thought possible.

To excite me, Judy took to walking round the house half naked most of that summer. With her new-found freedom, and Joe's irregular hours, it was inevitable that he would see her again. But the next time was not until several weeks later.

I was sitting in the dining room watching Judy hoovering the carpet, she was only wearing a short tee shirt and from a sitting position I could see her bare bum and pussy when she leaned forward slightly. She was giving me that sly sexy smile, a sure signal that she was in a sexy mood. We did not hear Joe arrive because of the noise of the hoover, and before

BONERS & BLOOMERS

Gaffs, FLUFFS, boo-boo's and clangers — that's the joy of live TV. Remember Lulu the baby elephant causing a stink on Blue Peter? Alex Kernaghan does. Here he chuckles us through some of those nights when things weren't quite right . . .

Live television is exhilarating to some performers — and complete anathema to others. Some of TV's most hilarious moments have been unscripted and totally unintentional. They were bloopers — those priceless gaffes or fluffs made in the heat of the moment when something goes riotously wrong.

In the early days of telly, of course, everything was transmitted live and the scope for enjoying the distress of those suffering OSD's (on-screen disasters), or foot-in-mouth disease was much greater. Few situations were, or are, guaranteed to shred nerves more effectively than knowing you're being beamed into the homes of millions live — with no hiding place for boners or bloomers!

You'd think the weather would be safe enough. It wasn't for Julian Pettifer as the presenter of About Anglia. When the weather map appeared on the screen all he had to do was voice-over the forecast. Unfortunately the word FOG featured strongly on the chart that evening, and while he was reading the magnetic letter F fell off . . .

"Well, that's a quick look at the weather," said Pettifer, "I'm sorry about the F in fog."

It was weather-girl Ulrika Jonsson's turn recently on TV-am. Having just completed an interview with Harry Enfield regarding his new Beeb show, Richard Keys handed over with the words, "You didn't catch Harry's show last night Ulrika?"

On the contrary Ulrika had.

"Lulu began pissing with the sort of power that only an elephant could."

"Yes, I did manage to get it last night," she nodded, raising her arm to the chart. She paused, her hand going to her mouth. "I don't think I meant to say that," she murmured — and burst into gales of laughter. For two minutes the control-room waited patiently for her to regain her composure — to no avail. With every breath Ulrika erupted with fresh hysterics while sleepy-eyed viewers joined in the mirth. Another half minute was added to her screen time. No dice. Ulrika had 'corpsed' (the slang for uncontrollable giggling) on her Freudian slip.

Another corpser was bass singer Ian Wallace. Struggling with the words of Gilbert and Sullivan's Tax Collector song, it was decided he'd be safer using a cue-board. Instead of a dignified delivery, however, Wallace was reduced to tears of laughter when he reached the line 'My stately pen is never lax when I'm assessing income tax.' The plonker who'd written-up the board had omitted the space between 'pen' and 'is'.

The news, like the weather, must be broadcast live and can prove a minefield booby-trapped for bungles.

"And Ranulph Fiennes has arrived at the North Pole," announced the ITN newsreader, "this completes a 500 mile journey across the Ike-tic arse cap . . ."

The BBC fares no better. Beside sitting under exploding light bulbs and being showered with broken glass, Jan Leeming holds the dubious distinction of introducing the United States Under Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs as, "United States Under-Sexed Secretary of State . . ."

Even the kids news isn't safe. On John Craven's Newsround we learned: "The Victorian Urinal has caused a lot of controversy in the town. The women say it's ugly and should be demolished, but the local men say they are prepared to stand behind it." Mind, I'll swear I detected the glimmer of a smile on Craven's face as he read that!

Speaking of kids, W.C. Field's sound advice on never working with animals or children has been ignored by some presenters to their cost! One presenter of ATV Today choked with laughter when he had to read on air a letter sent in by a disgruntled nine-year-old viewer.

"I was disgusted to see the item about them eating rabbits on your show last week. The next thing you know they'll be eating my pussy. I'm keeping my pussy locked up from now on . . ."

Chris Tarrant recalls a question he regrets raising with one seven-year-old on the ATV show Tiswas: "I remember asking this little mite about his school and his favourite teacher. After a long pause he said it was Mr Carter. Rather stupidly I then added, 'Does he have a nickname?' 'Oh yes,' came the reply, 'we call him Carter the Farter'."

But it isn't always the kids who put their foot in it on children's TV programmes.

"As you can see the cockpit is well padded to prevent men from bashing their nuts on the walls ..."

"Getting her to lie down is easy. Making her come is far more difficult ..."

"And what big knockers they have ..."

This last with reference to a display of Victorian doors set up on the studio floor. It was delivered with such a gloating smirk as to make it patent that the double entendre was anything but accidental. Adult viewers reacted with angry calls and letters of complaint. The culprit on all three screened solely in what is now termed 'monochrome', but the chances are you'll have seen the antics of Lulu the baby elephant on one of the Denis Norden compilations.

While Val expounded on the fascinating world of elephants Lulu decided it might be more interesting to take a stroll off-camera. Her keeper strolled with her – towed at the end of her leash.

"Russell Harty was more than a little disconcerted when Amazonian Grace Jones physically attacked him on national TV."

Our intrepid trio, Val Singleton, Peter Purves and John Noakes had just returned from 'holiday' in Ceylon and were giving a

Eventually the animal was coaxed back on screen by Noakes with the aid of a bucket of water and the promise of Unfortunately the effect of the water was instantaneous. Lulu began pissing with the sort of power that only an elephant could.

"You're supposed to be drinking it!" admonished Noakes as Lulu shuffled away from the empty bucket.

"My foot! My foot!" yelled Purves as the little monster mashed a Hush Puppy.

Still Lulu hadn't finished. The gargantuan piss was merely the precursor to a mammoth bowel-movement that piled up on the studio occasions? That hoary old, squeaky-clean perennial, Blue Peter.

You may be too young to recall those halcyon days when that dog-eared childrens' favourite was run-down on some of the wildlife they'd encountered on their travels. Enter baby Lulu from Chessington zoo dragging its keeper behind it.

something to drink.

As Lulu sucked nosily the presenters nodded and smiled bravely, trying desperately to make intelligent remarks on the species pachyderma.

floor. Having completed her toilet, Lulu decided she'd had enough exposure for one day and charged at the cameras. The last we saw of her was in silhouette as she disappeared among the camera-crew with the man from Chessington zoo skidding and bouncing across the floor behind her. Noakes laughed and clapped his hands in a parody of glee as he stepped back...

"Urrgghh!" he said, "now I've gone and trodden in it..."

Not an easy act to follow!

Some game shows can be pretty infantile given that their target audience is purportedly adult. To appreciate the majority would require something like pre-frontal lobotomy. Game shows aren't live but are screened 'as live', since going back to re-record over asinine answers is considered unfair to other contestants. Boo-boos and clangers are therefore often left in.

Not that all gaffes do result in guffaws come from the contestants. I recall one host who greeted a competitor with the words, "What lovely nipples she has... dimples, I mean dimples..."

Another of those Freudian banana skins.

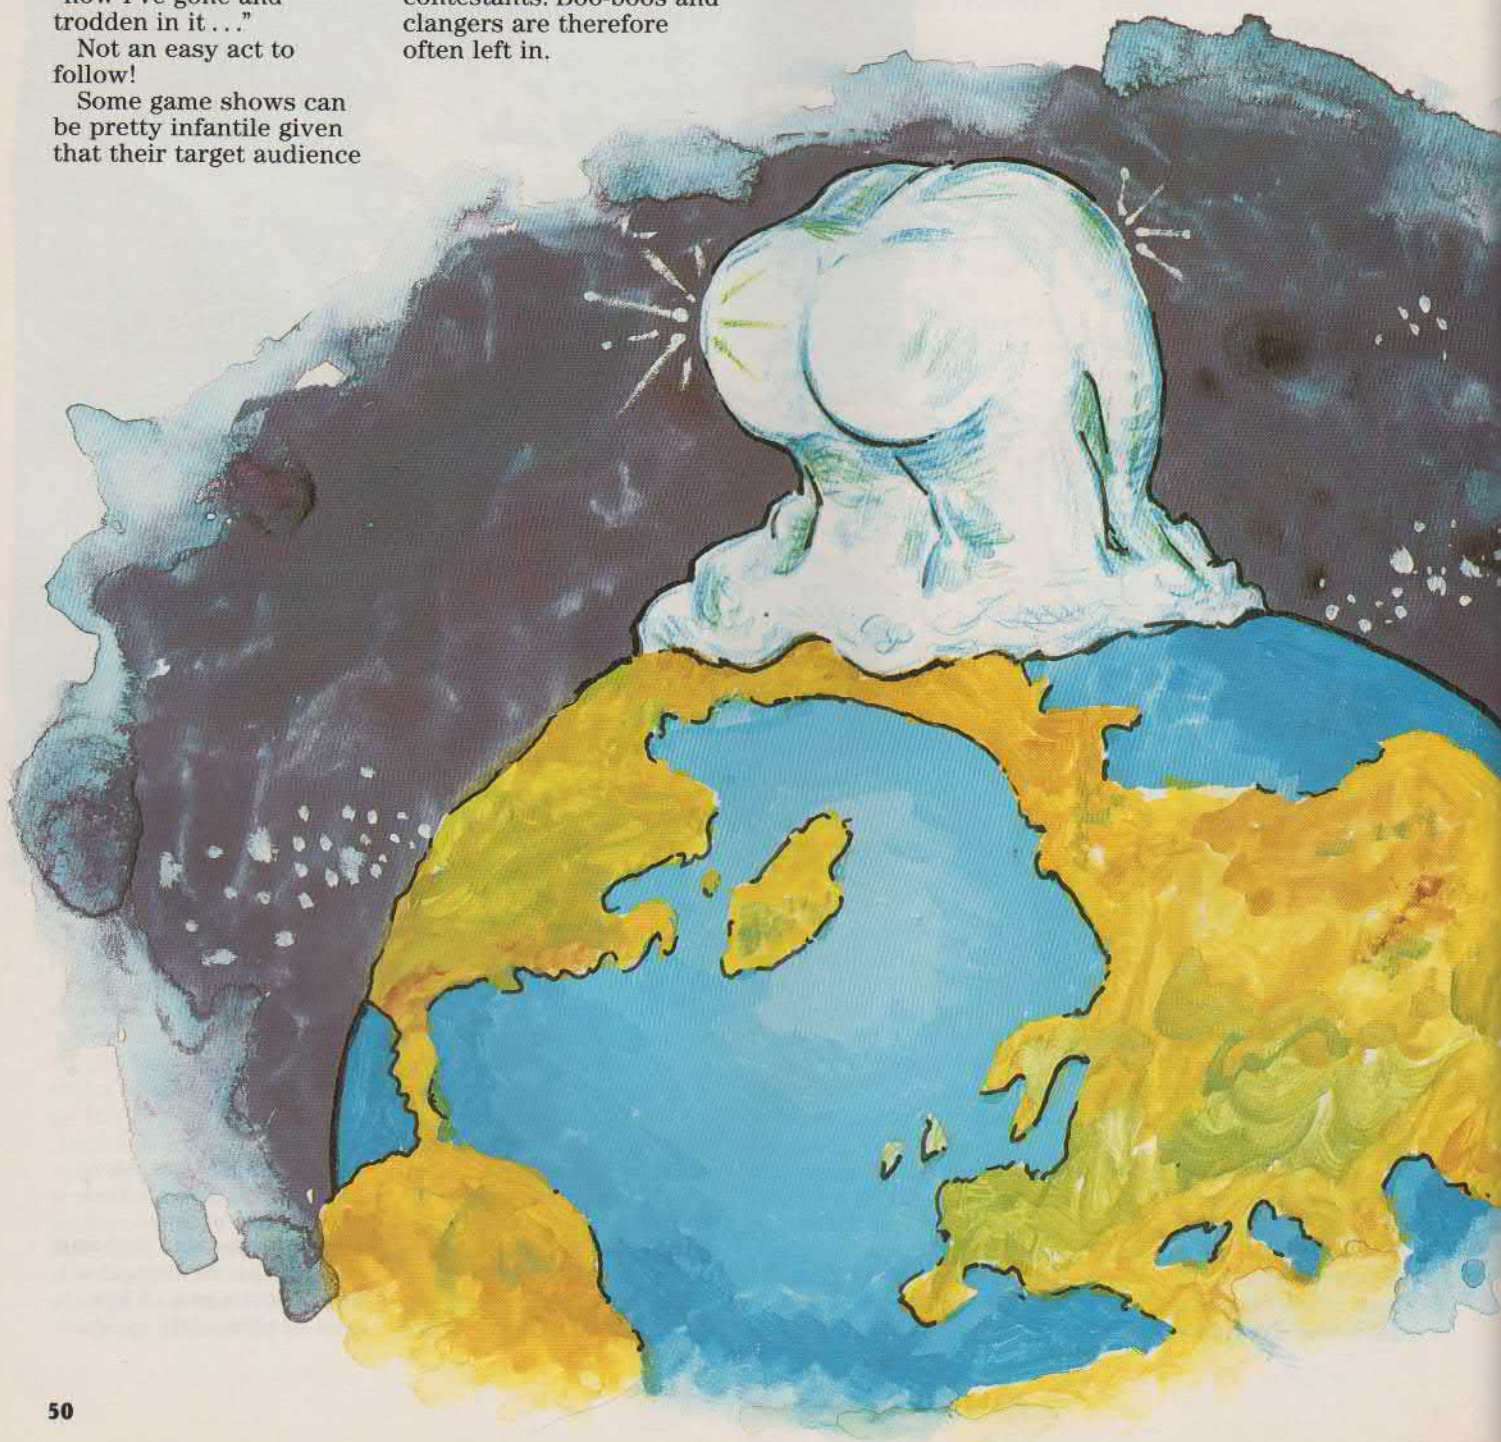

Some of the questions can be boob-loaded too!

"In which city was President Kennedy assassinated in Dallas?" – Jim Bown, Bullseye.

"Who played Captain Kirk, T.J. Hooker and William Shatner?" – Noel Edmunds, Telly Addicts.

Or how about, "Who was the leader of the American Rubber Publican party?" – Nicholas Parsons, Sale of the Century.

More often than not, of course, it's the contestants who blunder before the baleful eye of the camera – or have their vacuity permanently recorded for posterity. The original host of Family Fortunes, Bob Monkhouse, recalls one otherwise ordinary family that happened to include a rather dotty granny.

"I remember calling out, 'We asked 100 members of the public, name something pink...'. Everyone gave sensible answers like skin, blancmange, that sort of thing. When it came to Granny she replied, 'It wouldn't be my cardigan would it?'"

"Later I asked, 'Name something deserted in winter?' Again the other family members came up with answers like the beach, nudist camps and so on. Not Granny. 'My sister,' she replied. The audience roared.

"It's not funny,' hooted Granny hotly, 'her husband took everything when he went.'"

Even Monkhouse admits to having fluffed occasionally, "I have misread the autocue. Once on Bob's Full House I said: '007 James Bond looked round for a gents.' I should have said agents."

A different kind of 'game show' just as raddled with potential funny-boners comes in the shape of live sports coverage, where the excitement of the moment can lead to tongue-twisting foul-ups for the commentator.

"And now the familiar sight of Liverpool raising the European cup for the first time." – Brian Moore.

"Robson, equally good with both feet, particularly the left." – John Motson.

"No team has played better than the winner of this game, or indeed the losers." – Barry Davies.

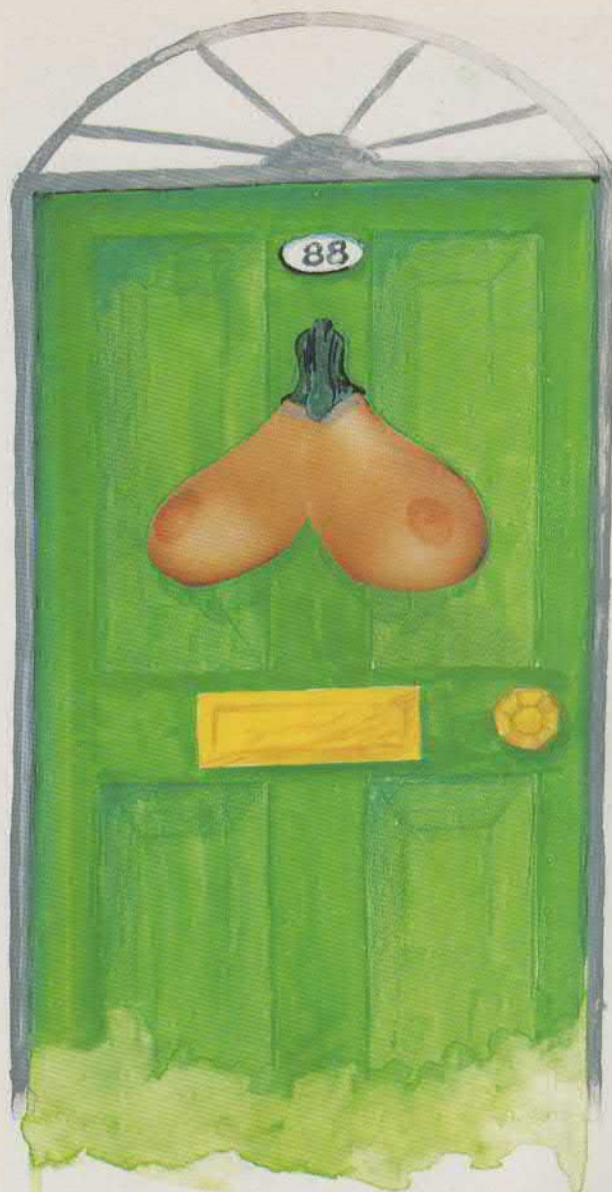

But probably the most regular exponent of these 'Coleman Balls' as they're known, is good-humoured Murray Walker.

"The scoring in rallypoint is 20 points for the fastest, 16 points for the second fastest, 10 points for the third fastest, right down to 4 points for the slowest fastest..."

"Lap 52, the penultimate but one..."

"He's the one in the Escort. Not surprising as they're all driving Escorts..."

"The tension is so great you could cut it with a option to hand that other chat show hosts might envy – a button he can press to immediately disconnect any caller who rings in with an awkward question. Fast on the draw as he is, even 'Whaley' hasn't been able to avoid being called "a wanker" on air, or asked, "What's it like to be old, fat and bald?"

You've got to hand it to them. It takes balls to appear on live TV, risking ego and reputation while one's brain and mouth threaten to shunt out of gear. For most of us the clangers or faux pas only serve as a reminder that even the men and women on the telly are mere mortals after all. For some, it just can't be all right on the night – but then we wouldn't want it to be!

"Even James Whale hasn't been able to avoid being called 'a wanker' on air."

cricket stump!"

Right on Murray!

Less game for a laugh, perhaps, is your genial chat show host. Especially these days with broadcasting live very much the vogue. When the screw-ups hit the fan there are no face-saving editorial scissors ready to snip to the rescue. Russell Harty was more than a little disconcerted when Amazonian Grace Jones physically attacked him

When it gets as hairy as that there would appear to be two main schools of thought. Carry on regardless, as did Jonathan Ross when a male guest climbed into his lap during an interview, or try to ignore the pest – sorry, guest – as Wogan did when an inebriated George Best, convulsed with laughter, insisted on reiterating, "He's shit himself," throughout the show.

James Whale has an

we realised it he was in the room with us. Judy grinned at me as Joe sat down beside me, I saw his face light up as he suddenly noticed her outfit. It was clear she was braless as her sexy nipples were trying to force their way through the thin material.

"Any chance of a cup of tea?" he enquired. Judy nodded and pranced into the kitchen, Joe turned to me and said, "Sorry if I interrupted your entertainment, but I was gasping for a cuppa, and I thought it would also give Judy a chance to scramble into some clothes." Three minutes later Judy returned with our tea, she was still dressed the same, and my heart was beating out of control as she handed him his tea and then sat opposite us. I was shaking with excitement and Judy just grinned at me as I tried to act calm. Joe seemed to be enjoying the situation as well, without making us feel embarrassed. "Are there any biscuits left?" he asked. Judy jumped up and pranced into the kitchen again, she returned to stand in front of us as we took our time selecting one from the tin. "I LOVE the outfit Judy," Joe suddenly blurted out, "just the thing for a hot day. I am glad you feel so relaxed here now, do you want to give us a twirl darling?"

My heart skipped a beat as she nodded and did a slow turn in front of our eagle eyes. Then the little minx raised her arms above her head to lift the tee shirt up and give us a perfect view of her firm bum cheeks and her dark pussy hairs. As she slowly turned round again, her face was flushed and it was clear she was enjoying it as much as we were. "Now take it right off," Joe told her. Judy lifted the hem of the tee shirt up and pulled it over her head, she held her arms out in front of her and dropped the thin garment to the floor. I watched Joe devour her with his eyes as she stood there proud and naked.

"So that's why they call him the cat!"

My heart was beating out of control as I heard him whispering how beautiful she was, he on my shoulder and started to kiss me and I moved her forward slightly so she was standing only inches from Joe. He reached forward and stroked his hands over her tummy and ran them down her long legs and then up again. I felt her knees buckle slightly as his fingers found her sensitive clit and started to explore her pretty pussy. I was almost coming in my pants as I watched Joe slide his fingers inside her. "She's soaking wet," he whispered to me as he slowly finger fucked her.

Judy went into a kneeling position in Joe's lap and tore off my jeans. I fed my throbbing cock into her wet cunt as she released Joe's cock and fed it into her eager mouth. I thrust in and out of her wet depth as she sucked Joe deep into her mouth and I watched her head bob up and down as she pleased us both at once. I came with a loud groan of pleasure as she milked Joe's cock. He came just after me, she took all his sperm in her pretty mouth and licked him clean as I watched.

There was no awkward silence afterwards, Joe pulled her onto his lap and played with her tits as she kissed his face all over.

Later that day Joe returned home with a bag full of sexy clothes for her and we had lots of fun watching her try on the revealing outfits, prancing around half naked. Most of them left little to the imagination and as Joe said, she revelled in the fact that she was turning us both on. One of the outfits was almost completely see-through, and when Joe asked her if It's really spooky out here in the woods after dark!

What the . . . ?

Wh-Where am I?

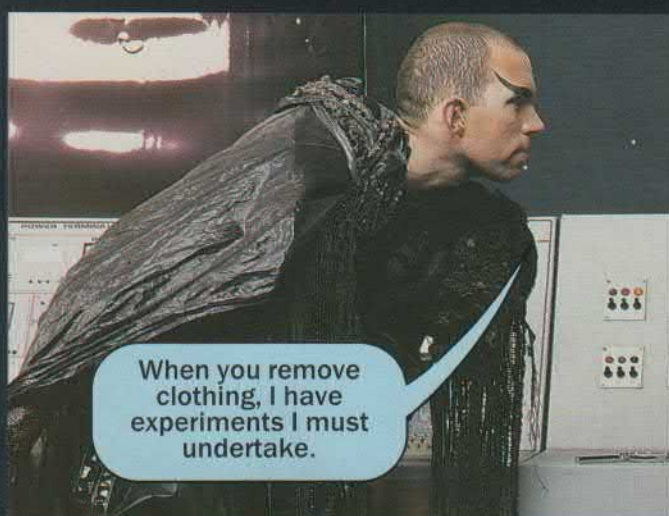

Not to be frightened, pretty lady. You beamed up to spacecraft on visit from far galaxy.

No, I not Beadle . . . and you can thank your lucky stars that we of the planet Chroch do not insult easily!

Ha-Ha! You can't fool me! You're Jeremy Beadle, aren't you?

When you remove clothing, I have experiments I must undertake.

Who the heck said I was gonna take my clothes off?

You rather I remove them for you?

Say please, first!

Please!

That was clever! How did you do that?

It power of positive thought over inanimate object.

You seem to have done quite a lot of research, already.

Spread self on table for me to make more research?

How many times must I tell you to say please?!

Please may I use power of positive thought to move animate object?

With pleasure ... but we Earth girls like to be given the chance to say no occasionally.

Ough! Please be gentle with me!

Sigh! — That isn't the most romantic proposition I've ever had!

With permission will continue research

I will first research your wobbly-bits.

Carry on. It's your choice.

Yipe! Wobbly-bits look very strange through magnifying glass.

And I'll bet yours would, too!

Oh, dear! This bit look more accommodating before I make it large with magnifier!

Ve-e-ery pretty.

Am I as beautiful as the girls on Chroch?

Illustrated by RUSS TUDOR

There's been a lot said and advertised about those elusive pheromones. We've all got 'em, but do the bloody things actually work? If there's one man who can tell us, it's TED POLHEMUS. We asked him to sweat profusely for a while and tell us how the girls reacted . . .

Hands up everyone who thinks sex is a smelly business. Right. Now keeping your hand up, rotate your head to the side, place your nose in your armpit and have a good whiff. You've just inhaled the sexiest smell produced by the human body.

I kid you not. Our underarms — especially the right if you're right handed, the left if you're left handed — are packed with apocrine glands which from puberty onwards secrete a 'love olfactory; that is, of or relating to the sense of smell.

We'll start at the beginning. A pheromone is a chemical messenger — a pongy postal package so to speak — which goes from one organism to another and which brings about some sort of physical or behavioural change in the organism on the receiving end of the pong. For example, you're having a chat with some guy who's just had himself a lamb vindaloo and every time he opens his mouth, some tiny to attract a fishy-smelling pussy.

Might work — where can you buy ground cherries?

Anyway, most, if not all, animals who reproduce by sexual reproduction use special pheromone messengers to locate sexual partners and to get them turned on. For example, a female rhesus monkey, when she goes into oestrus (that is, when she is 'on heat' and sexually receptive), will send out some whiffy come-up-and-see-me-sometime pheromones.

ug iso-valeric and 0.5 ug isocaproic per ml of secretion. Yum Yum. These 'volatile fatty acids' are produced by the breakdown of glycogen or carbohydrates when exposed to the bacterial flora which any sensible women has between her legs.

Two researchers, Morris and Udry — using the standard recipe as above — whipped up a big batch of synthetic human pussy secretions and gave this out (together with placebo solutions) to a group of female volunteers who then smeared the stuff on their skin before getting into bed with their male partners. This however had no statistically discernible effect on their sexual activities, frequency of intercourse and so forth.

perfume' which gets further wafted around and amplified by clinging to underarm hairs which exist purely for this purpose. Interestingly, while this is true of black and white skinned races, Asians have far fewer scent glands in their armpits; most Chinese and Japanese have no such glands at all. (Oh, sorry, I forgot, you can put your arms down now).

But if underarm niffs are so sexy why do we (well, most of us) go around spraying this potential passion powerhouse with deodorants? And why, when we're down the disco on the make, don't we go around sniffing armpits? ("Hi babe, come here often? Wanna sniff my pit?") Finally, is smell — whether from the armpit or the crotch, whether that which is produced naturally or that which comes in a bottle from Boots — really an important factor in what turns us on sexually?

Funny that you should ask that, 'cause I've just been reading a fascinating new book called The Scented Ape (by D. Michael Stoddart, from Cambridge University Press, £14.95 to you), and I'm a gold mine of information about all things little invisible pieces of lamb vindaloo float through the air until some of them land on your olfactory bulb (located just above your superior nasal concha). At this point a whole series of messengers take off like Sebastian Coe for your anterior olfactory cortex, your neocortex, your hypothalamus and so forth. The bottom line is that you think you're going to puke.

It's the same if you've got your face in the dark, wet and wonderful recesses of some girl's crotch. Tiny pussy juice pheromones do the conga into your nasal passages and chemical and electrical signals ricochet through your body. The only difference being that, generally speaking, the end result isn't that you throw up. Hopefully, that familiar fishy smell will be getting you going in other ways. By the way, we're not alone in thinking that pussies smell like fish. In Melanesia, in the south Pacific, a fellow on the hunt for some pussy will get himself a little red fruit called a ground cherry and put this on a fishing line. If this is successful in catching a fish he'll keep it on his person on the basis that what will attract a fish will have the 'love magic'

Male rhesus monkeys can detect this pong at some distance, but to double check will often engage in a bit of 'naso-genital investigation' upon encountering a female. If the right pheromones are present, males will (if you will pardon the pun), go ape with rampant sexual desire and do just about anything to engage in a bit of the other. In laboratory experiments, male rhesus monkeys quickly learned to press a bar about 250 times in order to raise a gate separating them from the pongy focus of their passion — a female rhesus in heat. How-research studies in The Scented Ape, Stoddart concludes that: "There is no evidence that human males find vaginal odour consciously attractive... while there is evidence that the hormonal status of female rhesus monkeys may be transmitted to males olfactorily and this has a marked effect on the level of their sexual activity, there is no unequivocal evidence of anything similar occurring in humans." (pp. 96-7).

One possible explanation of this is that as our distant pre-human ancestors got into bipe-

"Hopefully, that familiar fishy smell will be getting to you in other ways."

ever, when the male's nasal passages were plugged up with special pong resistant pads, there was no way that they were going to press some stupid bar 250 times!

Human female pussies produce a smelly secretion which is quite similar to that of female rhesus monkeys. If you're interested, (and who isn't?) human female vaginal secretions contain on average: 10.0 ug acetic, 7.0 ug propionic, 0.5 ug isobutyric, 6.5 ug n-butyric, 2.0

dal locomotion (that is, going about on two legs instead of four), pussy smells became less important simply because your average upright male's nose would be a long way from your average upright female's pussy. It was this shift to doing the locomotion on two legs instead of four which probably brought about the development of the powerful axillary pheromone production glands located in human armpits — simply because they would be closer to the nose of a biped. For the same reason there are also pheromone producing glands on the eyelids.

All these extra, powerful, pheromone producing glands on the upper half of the body meant that our distant ancestors became, olfactorily speaking, the best endowed of all the apes. And in a way this is still the case — we're a smelly bunch (Speak for yourself — Editor) and our sexual pheromones (especially those produced in our armpits) have the power to effect our moods and, to a certain extent, our behaviour.

For example, Kirk-Smith and some other researchers had volunteer subjects evaluate pictures of people, animals and buildings while wearing surgical masks; some of which were treated with androstenol (a primary component of armpit odour). The result was that: "The whole group of subjects rated photographs of women as better, more attractive and sexier, and the photographs of both men and women warmer and more friendly when in the presence of androstenol than when breathing unscented air. There was a tendency for all the photographs of humans to be rated more interesting in the presence of androstenol; an effect not seen for animals or buildings." (The Scented Ape, p.136).

In another, more recent experiment, Kirk-Smith and Booth sprayed some but not all chairs in a dentist's waiting room with androstenol and had the receptionist keep a record of who sat in which chairs. The result was that a: "Significantly higher proportion of women selected scented chairs and a significantly lower proportion of men choose the same chairs." (The Scented Ape, p.137).

While these studies seem to show that we do indeed react to armpit and other pheromones, the really interesting thing, when you think about it, is how little they actually effect our behaviour. Namely, the men and women waiting for the dentist who sat in or near the sexual pheromone — sprayed chairs didn't rip off their clothes and start humping each other or the receptionist, who must have had quite a lot of exposure to these 'love perfumes', yet seems to have not become a lust crazed nympho. If these odours and glands developed on our ancestor's bodies precisely to get them going sexually — like a bunch of animals — why do we seem to have become so restrained and resistant to the power of their 'sexual chemistry'?

The answer — according to The Scented Ape, and it seems pretty reasonable to me — is that not long after going bipedal and gaining powerfully pongy pits, our ancestors then went and became 'desensitized' to these very same sexual triggers. Why? Because all this sexual chemistry was wreaking havoc with their daily lives. In particular, it was putting a strain on what is known in the trade as 'pair-bonding' (a male and a female 'going steady', so to speak).

Other primates either live in packs and are extremely promiscuous (e.g. baboons and chimps), or live in little family units and are monogamous (e.g.

gibbons). Our ancestors, uniquely, had to find a way of combining these two things. For hunting reasons they needed to live in groups, but because human infants have an extremely long learning period after they are born and during which they can't fend for themselves, our female ancestors needed to keep their male partners around to provide protection and food for themselves and their mutual offspring. Living in tribal groups, however, with other females spraying lots of really powerful sexual pheromones all over the place would have constantly threatened the stability of these 'steady' relationships. The only solution was for armpit odours and such like a headache). Human sexuality also became 'sexier' as our male ancestors developed what comparatively speaking are enormous dongos, as females developed protruding tits and other wobbly bits for men to play with and as orgasms became more intense for both men and women. All of which apparently evolved to help keep things interesting within relatively stable 'pair-bond' relationships.

Is this really what happened? No one can be sure, but what is clear is that compared with other animals, while homo sapiens may still produce a lot of sexually related smells, the effect of these on behaviour has become much weaker. There to become gradually less and less powerful as aphrodisiacs.

"If the right pheromones are present, males will go ape with rampant sexual desire."

There were, however, compensations as Desmond Morris and other writers have pointed out. For one thing, human females — uniquely among our primate relations — are sexually inclined throughout their cycle and not just when ovulating. (Unless, of course, they have just isn't any pheromone which when it hits our olfactory bulbs will cause us to rip off our clothes and start humping away (like the effect of the 'sex ray' in that fun film 'Flesh Gordon').

And apart from whatever we might think about monogamy versus promiscuity, it must be said that this weakening of the power of sex pheromones was a sensible and necessary development. I mean, if our pheromones really were as powerful as those of other animals, we might suddenly be overcome with uncontrollable lust while riding on a bus or in the check-out as Tescos! Then, for example, whole cities would be like it is most days in the Knave offices, with rampant, unbridled lust making it impossible to get anything done.

So it comes down to this: yes, there is such a thing as 'sexual chemistry' — for humans as well as for other animals. However, it doesn't have the sort of rip off your clothes and get down and boogie power that it once did. For us homo sapiens things have become more subtle. The 'smell centre' of our brain is still there — but buried deep in 'the old brain' and surrounded by a hugely developed cortex which generally (except when catching sight of Matilda on page 92 of this issue of Knave) keeps us fairly rational and under control.

Nevertheless, what goes on in the 'old brain' — the subconscious — is important to our sexual behaviour and, interestingly, throughout human history people have taken to splashing various perfumes on themselves because they found that these had the power to at least partly activate subconscious sexual animal memories and desires.

This happens because such perfumes (and this includes the more expensive ones on sale today) contain the sexual pheromones of other animals. For example, musk comes from a pod-like gland which develops in male Himalayan deer during their rutting period. Civet — an essential ingredient in perfumes since Biblical times, and quite probably one of the weapons used by Cleopatra to lure Mark Anthony into her bed — comes from special sacks in the rear end of the civet cat Viverra civetta (and no, I'm not making this up).

These ancient animal pheromones seem to reach the sexual parts which our own pheromones cannot reach. They activate ancient, primordial animal passions in the 'old brain' (which is not actually very different from that of other animals), while our own human pheromones have been de-activated to the point that normally we only experience them as unpleasant pongs which we want to get rid of.

However, even the pheromones of other animals which we use in perfumes do not work in a 'get laid or your money back sort of way'. Their effect is vague and subtle because the ancient smell centre of our brain is so puny and weak compared to our 'new' rational brain. If we try to get around this by using higher concentrations of animal pheromones like musk or civet in our perfumes, the result is simply that we find the resulting odour to be unpleasant and are turned off sex altogether. And by the way, male and female genitals smeared with musk may get stuck together so that disengaging becomes impossible without medical treatment. Imagine the embarrassment.

Like flickering candlelight, champagne, oysters and so on, perfumes containing sexual pheromones can help to set the erotic mood. But that's about it. It would be nice to be able to tell you about some 100% sure pong in a bottle which will guarantee sexual success, but the fact of the matter is that while such odours can do the business for other animals, like pigs or rhesus monkeys, they just don't have the same throw-your-inhibitions-out-the-window effect upon us human beings. If they did, we'd still be up some tree in some jungle fucking ourselves silly. Such is the price of progress.

"Armpit odours and such like became gradually less and less powerful as aphrodisiacs."

NAUGHTY NEIGHBOURS

A chink in the curtain reveals the wife-swapping antics in a suburban town. John screws Peter's wife Sally, while Peter gets his end away orally, so to speak, with John's wife. Meanwhile, Carol and Claire are into a lesbian screwing session and Allan's wife, Jackie is showing the workmen the crack that she wants filled.

BUSTY SPECIAL NO. 1

When little Alice spills a drink down the dress of Margaret, the big busted blonde, she strips off and lets Alice dry her body, including those big, bulging tits. Then Alice gives her a baby oil massage, finding her way into every nook and cranny, until Margaret is completely satisfied.

ANGEL'S BACK

Back to what she does best — sex — with anybody. Lots of lesbian and group action. A superb gym session, where she lifts all the tackle going and makes the most of the bulging equipment. Then her insatiable lust takes her into a Harem orgy with Arabs built like stallions.

BERTHA

Bertha, oh Bertha. You are sooo beautiful that I could write reams of poetry about you. But I can't be bothered. So let's just say that I wouldn't mind giving you one. Well, if I wasn't feeling too tired, that is. And if that was the case, maybe you could give me a quick hand job whilst I took it easy? Or, perhaps we should just forget the whole thing. Let's just be friends, huh?

ME

Foreign Bodies

I went through a phase in the mid-80's when I'd compare my sexual experiences with English men to those I've had with Cosmopolitans. The English will mostly get you all worked up with kinky foreplay (blue movies, scan mags, etc.). The Cosmopolitan man, on the other hand, considers a British girl to be a tremendous catch. He is very flash with his money, takes you to the best bars, dances dreamily and is marvellous in bed, with the most amazing staying power. It all combines to make you feel so... wanted.

When I was 19 I'd been with Italians, Arabs, Asians, Greeks and West Indians. Certainly, if I'd put a meter on it for 15 months, I'd have done pretty well for myself indeed. As things stand, I'm a very experienced and, generally, very satisfied lady.

Take Dan, for example. If I could ascertain that all West Indians were as good as him, I'd go and rent a beach house in Jamaica, instantly. Dan was the one who introduced me to the beauty and elegance of stockings; extremely feminine, flattering to the legs and wonderful to wear (never will I resort to tights ever again). Anyway, Dan came into my life not long after I'd parted with my parents. I took an absolute horrid bedsit in Radford, which is basically an apt description — it was a bed and you'd sit in it. I'd spend three nights a week in the launderette on the corner, watching my knickers go round. I didn't even know where my next meal was coming from. It was as though Dan immediately understood my plight. He took me back to his flat, fed me and within 20 minutes had fixed me up with a job. His uncle owned a night club in the town. I'd work behind the bar serving expensive drinks, dressed in a skimpy red costume; high skirt hem and plunging V-neck, which left little to the imagination. It was an outfit many waitresses thought 'tarty', though all of us had to wear. After the first night I took a taxi straight to Dan's apartment. It was all of 4 a.m. and I wanted to thank him for getting me the job. I entered his flat and could see that Dan was asleep, stretched out on the sofa. He must have been wide awake because he turned to me as I came in. I went to the sofa and knelt in front of him. "Thank you, Dan. I really appreciate what you've done for me," I told him.

"I was stretched to the limit."

Unsmiling, he shifted to the edge of the sofa and put a muscular arm around my shoulders, pulling me close to him, cradling my head against his chest and stroking my long blonde hair. I took the initiative, licking his bare nipples and reaching lower, I unfastened his robe. At once I felt his cock uncoil, harden and nudge into my belly as it started to expand. I went down in response, licking around his navel and his flat, body builder's stomach. His cock, I discovered to my delight, wasn't just big, black and exquisitely beautiful. It was fucking enormous, a weapon of a thing, a wet dream come true (of which I've had many). Although, up to that point I'd only sucked four cocks in my life, I gobbled Dan's like a real... pro, with indecent lust, relishing his salty taste, his harsh aroma, its sheer stiffness, the way he made it flex with pleasure, his wonderfully big, black, pendulous balls, even the stray pubic hairs tickling my tongue. Dan led me through to the bedroom where I was neither kissed nor petted, nor pillow talked. Instead a couple of silk cased pillows were doubled up and stuffed under my belly, I buried my head in yet another, parted my stockinged legs and awaited the inevitable onslaught on my vulnerable nether regions.

His approach to the first memorable fuck was very much, 'well-you've-asked-for-it,' as indeed I had. He knelt behind me, between my spread thighs, grabbed my buttocks and after kneading them roughly, got his thumbs between my labia and opened me. Dan's donkey-like appendage meant that I was stretched to the limit, more concerned with my physical ability to 'take him' than immersing myself in the enjoyment. That came later, when having struggled and adapted myself to his contours and at long last could relax, I started to enjoy the ride. I offered wicked little tempters en route: a sassy bottom wiggle here, a "Faster, that's the way, get it right up me," there.

As his climax drew near, so Dan's frenzy began to peak. Grasping my hair and pushing my blaspheming face into the pillow, he took a tight grip of my bum and pumped. Hard, savage and demonic. After he'd shot his lot into me (I'd already climaxed so many times I'd lost count), he turned me around, knelt astride my breasts, and took a fistful of hair. He was playing with his cock, which showed no signs of going down. "Well, aren't you going to lick it clean?" he asked, introducing its pink-grey tip into my eager mouth. How could a girl refuse? The way I felt at that moment in time, Dan would never have recourse to soap and flannel ever again.

Next was Macir, my only Greek boyfriend. Sometimes, when he drank, he would say how proud he was to have a beautiful English girl.

The sex life we shared during our too brief affair was little short of magnificent. Like all Greeks, Macir was hung something on the slender side, but adequately compensated for it by his length. I met him at the club Dan had got me the job at (though he had long gone). Macir was one of those men who seemed to enjoy not wearing underpants. Add to that a penchant for close-fitting, light weight suits and a revealing bulge (in Macir's case of totally indecent proportions) is unavoidable. As we drove home from the pub, I glanced to my right: Macir was driving with his left hand, while pampering his erection — which appeared to stretch half way to his knee — with his right. As he drove, presumably aching to get me back to his flat, between the sheets and split me with that awesome weapon of his, I leaned across, unfastened his Gucci belt buckle and lowered his zip. Lifting his warm, long, semi-erect cock from the repressive confines of his immaculately cut slacks, I put it in my mouth. Then, taking his large, heavy pendulous balls in the palm of my left hand, I started to suck.

No matter the almost overpowering smell of Aramis, the heavily jewelled hand that was now gripping the back of my neck, almost making me gag as his bulbous glans brushed the back of my throat. No matter his filthy talk as I started to suck him and stroke his impressive length in unison, nor the way he was unable to contain his excitement, pulling into a side street, lifting my short skirt over my grey stocking tops and crudely and remorselessly fingering me. No matter. I was more than capable of handling his anguished, pent-up sexuality and more than anything I wanted to be naked with him, to prolong his orgasm until I'd had so much cock I was sore. I fancied Macir desperately, so suave and debonair and more than anything in the world I wanted him to fuck me, to have him suck my nipples, lick my clitoris, wrap my ankles round his neck and bury his brown-veined cock inside me, right up to the hilt.

ME it happened to

When we arrived at his apartment, Macir positioned himself in front of his full-length, gilt framed mirror that dominated the hall way, to admire his handsome reflection and started to comb his hair. With my arms around his slim waist, I stood behind him, grinding my pussy into his wonderfully tight buttocks. Then, reaching for his fly, I extricated his salami-shaped, coffee coloured hard on a second time and started lazily, slutishly wanking him off.

Macir turned to face me, lifting my cotton skirt, cupping my naked bum, pulling me close and kissing me (about as close to romance our relationship got). I responded to his kiss enthusiastically, exploring his mouth with my tongue, pressing my lips hard against his. Though his breath was the foulest, I didn't care, I inhaled it all the same, lost in the raw passion I felt.

It was then, taking my lower lip into his mouth, he bit me, not hard, but enough to shock me. Then, taking hold of the shoulder straps of my thin top he yanked downwards and proceeded to calmly, methodically rip it, and my skirt, from my body, until they lay in a tattered, crumpled heap in the floor in front of me. But for my stockings, suspender belt and shoes, I was completely naked, and desperately aroused. "Turn around, let me see your ass. That's it. Now wiggle it for me, perfect," he said.

"I like a girl with spirit," Macir added pretentiously, kneeling between my stocking thighs with his trousers around his ankles, stroking his long cock as he looked me over, "now lets see how much you like THIS!" He spat out the last word and simultaneously drove his monstrous length straight up me with a sudden, unexpected thrust of his hips. Stuffing me to capacity and more, with his hard, determined meat. I came off again and again as he snatched my breath, impaling me on that gloriously poker stiff, knob of his.

Life with Macir was frantic, 'tempestuous' and sexually excessive. After three months of extravagant nights out, nasty arguments and intoxicated all night sex marathons, I was emotionally and physically drained. I've concluded that I prefer Greeks except that when I eased back the foreskin, the top two inches of flesh (below the knob) was pink — a pretty and rather fetching sight, enough to make any girl's mouth water.

Like other Italians I've 'known', Vic excelled at sex and was partial to licking my clit, especially when I was wearing a pair of suitably skimpy panties. Vic wasn't the only lover I've had who enthused over my bottom, only in his case it was enthusiasm tinged with rap-ture as he continually requested me to parade around the flat in a thin shirt, hold-up stockings, high heels and a pair of minute knicsexually to socially.

"I part my stockinged legs and waited."

For a few weeks it was a nice change to be alone once more, to sleep and not be rudely woken in the early hours by the phone, or by the undaunting persistence of a hard, straining cock being shoved up me. Perhaps it was my cock-shocked condition that made me a natural quarry for Victor, a South Italian with a deep Mediterranean tan and a professed intuittive understanding of 'female problems', all of which were curable, in Vic's book, by copious helpings of cock.

Vic was blessed with a ballet dancer's physique; skinny hips, hollow, Nureyev-type backside and a heavy, purposeful cock. It was the same shade of pale mahogany as the rest of his body, or a G-string, asking me to bend over at nearly every opportunity and show him my bot-ty.

Bedecked in the luxury of fabulous silk undies that Macir (who had returned to Greece) had bought me, I would go into Vic's favourite doggie position, squeal with joy as he fooled around with my labia and clitoris prior to slipping his thickness in, riding me into the early hours. Taking me this way and that, penetrating my weeping, dribbling innards, until I eventually collapsed exhausted beneath him, satiated and covered in his come.

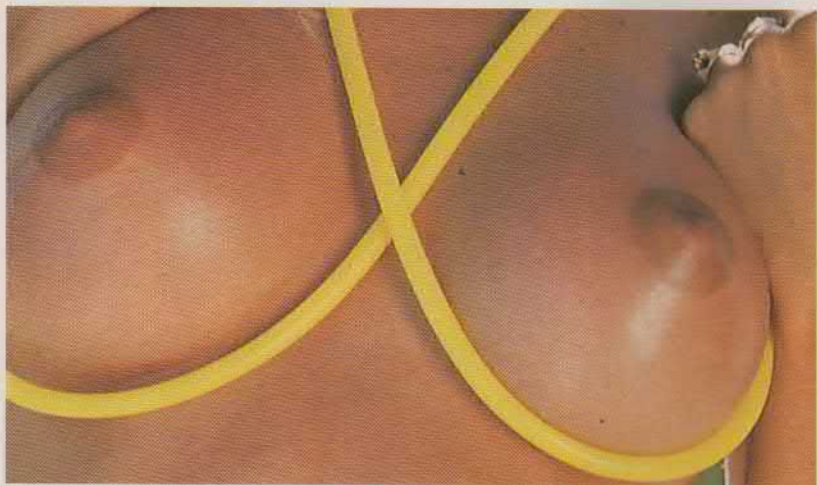

And there were so many others: two Lebanese brothers who 'went out' with me on alternating dates, (except one memorable evening when they got their timing wrong and I had to entertain them both, simultaneously). One spunked profusely in my mouth, rather messily I may say, most of which I gratefully managed to swallow, and the other 'creamed' up my cunt. An Ethiopian student was another. He could hardly speak a word of English but was so exquisitely, beautifully and massively endowed, that I didn't let him out of my bedroom for almost three days after he had knocked on my door wanting some sugar. I was as sore as hell afterwards, which served me right, I suppose, for being greedy. And a Bangladeshi sari emporium owner with an amazing ability to come over and over again.

Well that's my story so far, and every part of this is true. Oh yes, before any Brits get a complex with this story, I must say that I am married to a super husband who I love dearly and hails from Lincoln, and to my knowledge has no foreign blood of any type in his veins (but is certainly hung like a particular Jamaican I've been acquainted with). — K., Notts.

Matilda

Matilda, or Matty as we like to call her, is a cool corker, ain't she? I know several people who would swim through a river of vomit to sample her charming er, charms. Well, personally I wouldn't go that far. A lake of lukewarm custard would be the furthest I'd go. But then again, I'm so good looking that Matty'd be the one having to do the swimming. Knoworimean! I'm alright Jack, I am, I am . . .

he could take her out to a party wearing it, she gave an excited squeal and whispered, "Yes." Judy seemed insatiable that night as both Joe and I took it in turns to screw her, but she loved it most when she had a cock in each end. We spent an exciting year at Joe's and Judy DID wear the sexy dress. — B.H., Isle of Wight.

Crackin' A Bar

My name is Leanne, and I live in Perth, Western Australia. My boyfriend gets Knave regularly (and other things!). We both love to read "Penpower" and my pussy juices up over the stories. Ken likes to take pictures of me in some of the poses your models use. I guess you could say that our sex life gets some spice from Knave. Anyway, I thought that since other readers have given me so much pleasure, I should share one of my experiences with you.

My boyfriend lives in a beachside suburb, and I usually spend the weekend with him there. Although I was born in Bournemouth 20 years ago, I came with my parents to Australia when I was seven. The beaches in England are nothing like what we have here, not only are they soft golden sand, but mostly girls can sunbathe topless without being hassled! I often go to beach, and then put suntan oil on my tits, which are nicely shaped, rubbing it well into the nipples. This often gets some lads going, and I often see one "crack a bar" while I feel myself up in front of them.

Needless to say I often get a wet spot on my bikini pants! Ken usually gets the benefit of this when we get home, and that's what I'm going to tell you about. Ken and I had been to the beach with a friend of mine from University. We both got hot showing our tits, and Ken had been half hard all afternoon. After we drove Sheree home, I went for a cool shower. The cold water had just the opposite effect on my cunt, and I fingered my hot box while I rinsed away the salt. Ken had his bathers off and was waiting when I came out of the shower.

I dropped my towel and kissed him hard, rubbing my tits into his chest. I felt his cock stiffen between us, and I wanked him gently, peeling his foreskin from the knob. Kneeling, I gobbled his prick, God, I love salted beef! Ken fucked my mouth with his straining 7" prick, while I beat myself off with three fingers in my cunt.

I wanted that meat in my cunt, so I turned and presented him with my bum. I was so hot I didn't give Ken a chance to put it to me, I just shoved my wet fuckhole onto him, until his pubes tickled my cunt lips. Wanking my clitty, I rode Ken into fuck-heaven. He shot his come up my cunt, and I had to use his dwindling tool and my fingers to come, but I'm afraid that it wasn't a very good orgasm. I wanted more, but Ken needed to help to get it up again.

I told him I wanted to taste his come and my cunt juices. Now, for some of the photos Ken takes I use a dildo, and I took that dildo out of the wardrobe, and licked it, saying, "Isn't it a pity that your's can't be as hard as this." When it was wet enough, I put the dildo, which is a lot longer than Ken's prick, where it was meant to go.

The pink plastic of the wanking-stick was glistening with clotted come when it slurped out of my cunt. Tasty!

A hooker went to the bank to deposit her most recently acquired earnings, two diamond encrusted gold necklaces.

As she handed it to the teller, he said, "I hope you don't mind lady, but I happen to know something about gold and jewellery, and these necklaces aren't real gold and these diamonds are fake." "Oh my God!" screamed the prostitute, "I've been raped!"

Eventually Ken's cock got the message, and I treated it to another licking. Ken ate my furburger, leaving the little blonde bush very wet indeed.

Eventually, I thought that a fuck might be a good idea, so I impaled myself on his cock.

Lifting myself up high when I rode Ken and gave him a beautiful view of Cunt eating Dick, with my tits swinging. All of this work can make a girl tired, so I had a lay down. Ken took over the fucking, lifting my hips, so that he was sort of using my body to wank with.

After all this attention my cunt was getting a bit sore, and my clit was pretty well fucked out, so I gave Ken a tit-fuck to milk his jism.

That was last weekend. Next weekend Ken is going to see my new bikini which I daren't let my parents see, because although they're pretty liberal, I don't think they'd approve of something that shows almost all of my goodies. In fact it's so skimpy that I had to shave my pubes off entirely, something I've wanted to do for a while, ever since I saw Ken almost cream his jeans over my friend Sheree's shaven haven, when he saw her having an after beach shower. I'll write and tell you how it goes. — L., Australia.

"I've never known anyone to enjoy their own farts as much as you do!"

Yvonne

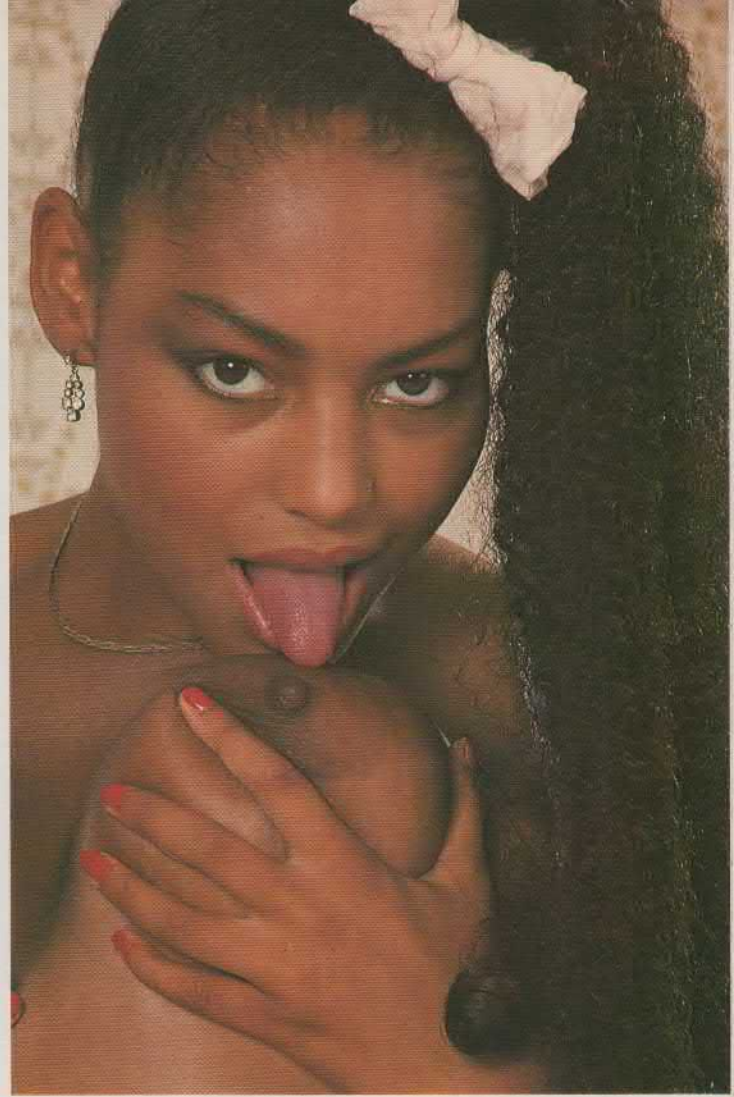

Yvonne. Hmm? What can you say about a girl who's got it all? A vag, a pair of titties, some buttocks. The full set. It's all there. I know, I've looked. So why don't you stop wasting my time and do the same. I've got work to do. Byeee . . .

NEWS

WE HAVE A NEW ROVING REPORTER, PAMILA HAMILL. FROM TIME TO TIME SHE WILL INVESTIGATE, INTERVIEW AND REPORT ON A VARIETY OF SUBJECTS FOR YOU TO INDULGE. AS WITH ALL NEWCOMERS THE ARDIOUS INITIATION CERIMONY OR ACT HAS TO BE BESTOWED AND WHAT BETTER THAN TO GIVE HER THE TASK OF SEEKING OUT AND INTERVIEWING PHOTOGRAPHER AUSTIN LEGREW?

Austin Legrew is a photographer who rarely gives interviews, but at great expense (to Austin! — Ed.) our inimitable Editor, pulled a few well-connected strings and I was granted an audience.

My allotted time was given and the venue stated. Twelve o'clock, Kensington Roof Garden, please be prompt! With slight deliberation I arrived for lunch and was shown to my table. As I approached, a slim figure with long brown hair, a beard and a friendly (leering! — Ed.) smile stood up and greeted me. With an air of confidence he introduced himself and invited me to sit down. A large Pimm's Number One was placed in front of me and we talked generally for a while. It gave me a chance to study the exterior of this man. Wearing 501's, cowboy boots, a white T-shirt and a rather well cut biker's jacket; my first impression was that of a heavy metal rocker not a photographer.

Are you a hippy, you know into bikes, sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll?

Hey, man, what's this shit you're layin' on me? Ha! No, not really. I ride bikes, I'm into sex, I like most music and my drug is my lifestyle.

Do you own a bike?

An old Triumph Bonny American spec. I've been restoring it for years, it's looking hot now, but there's still work to be done on it.

Do you ride it often?

The bike?... no, mainly hot sunny days when I fancy putting some wind in my hair. My work horse is a Range Rover. It's thirsty, but it carries the gear and the crew comfortably.

How long have you been a photographer?

I started earning money from taking pictures in 1978, but I bought the studio in 1984 and that's when I regard things as having started for me.

Why glamour photography and not, say, fashion?

Good question really, I have done and continue to cover all aspects of commercial photography, but it is erotic photography that I enjoy shooting most. Somehow the people, with a few exceptions, are very down to earth and friendly. They tend not to take life seriously and that makes shooting fun. Life can get very boring if you don't push and squeeze every last drop of fun out of it. All of this pompous shit pisses me off!

Who buys your work?

Well it's not just men's magazines, there's a whole world out there that has an insatiable thirst for horny pictures. Calendars, posters, video covers, newspapers and certain types of advertising. My clients are world-wide, I sell to publishers in Germany, Holland, Sweden, France, Spain, Portugal, U.S.A., Canada, Brazil and Japan. Japan is an interesting country as they are not allowed to publish pictures with pubic hair; they airbrush a black triangle over the pubes. Crazy if you ask me, it just looks as though the girl has a very hairy minge!

INTERVIEWS

There must have been a time when you consciously started to shoot glamour. How did it all start?

I have always enjoyed photographing the nude (Even if it made the girls laugh – Ed.). When I was working with one particular girl she suggested that I ought to shoot girl sets. She offered to introduce me to a few magazine editors, I showed them my work and got my first job. It was a freelance thing, they gave me the idea, I went and shot it, they liked it and bought it.

Most photographers have a work side and a hobby side. What sort of pictures do you take when you're not working?

Well I like landscape, but for years now I have been taking nudes and personally motivated erotic images using girls who have become close friends. There's no commercial pressure and we have lots of fun. Stacks of wine and food, we make a whole day of it.

What has been your most rewarding job to date?

Well I've been selling prints of my personal work to a few private collectors for a little while now, and a Japanese collector commissioned me to photograph an exclusive album for him. He wanted twenty prints on a specific theme. Shooting it was a challenge, but I really enjoyed printing the images and then having an album archivally hand made, then mounted. That was rewarding and what makes it sweeter is that he's just commissioned another album and recommended another collector to my work.

You've mentioned your personal work a few times now. It's an important part of your photography isn't it?

It is really, it's very important to me. When you produce commercial work so prolifically I think it's important to recharge your creative batteries, so to speak, by taking pictures that stimulate yourself, and not necessarily anyone else.

It obviously stimulates others as you sell to collectors.

Eroticism is like beauty; it's in the eye of the beholder. People's sexuality tends to be very suppressed. Somehow it is easier to witness eroticism rather than participate in it. That way pleasure is taken from seeing a situation and fantasising about it. When you photograph naked women all day, your sexual perspective changes. I find it fascinating just how my work has changed over the years. If other people can identify with my preception then they too will take pleasure from my images.

You have a reputation for being a prankster. I've heard about the warm water and the exposé gags. Tell me about them.

I want to know who you've been talking to? Well, the warm water is a simple gag. You need someone who is fairly pissed and falls into a drunken sleep. Then when they are out for the count gently pour a jug luke warm water over their groin area, wait for it to settle, then wake them up by pouring water from one glass to another. When they realise they're wet, they just die with embarrassment. The exposé has to have a girl who is very much into her boyfriend. At night I would creep into her bed having organised with the rest of the crew to burst in moments later with a camera. The shock of the burst in achieves the horrified look and of course I act as if caught. The picture's in the bag. Bribery and corruption follows. It works better if the girl was pissed when she went to bed, that way she can't remember if she pulled or not!

You've been in the business for eight years.

Where do you see yourself going photographically in the future?

Well, I will continue working on commercial work as that's my income. My personal work is increasingly in demand, so I will bring out more catalogues to promote my collections. I hope to work on more private albums, there seems a demand for albums on girlfriends and wives. Then I have been contemplating doing video. I'm looking at it at the moment, so we'll see.

Sixteen images of Austin Legrew's personal work can be seen in a catalogue priced £5. It's available from Austin Legrew Collections, 16 Connaught Street, Marble Arch, London WC2 2AG. (And that, Austin my son, means you owe me a large sum of monies! — Ed.).

HILARY

Purple, perfect and nude, that's how we like 'em. Obviously the girl, Hilary in this case, has to be nude. And, equally as clearly, it's our knobos that are purple. Actually, mine's a bit on the red side with little cheesy bits around the foreskin. Y'know the ones, the sort you have to smear off with yer finger. Look, I know that this might be putting you off your wank, but it's reality. I just want to say one thing to you: personal hygiene. Think about it. Now, before it's too late.

JACKIE

This here girl's Jackie. It's not her real name y'understand, she just calls herself that. Why? 'Cause she's always admired the Jackie.
Yeah that's right, Jackie O. The rich 'n' famous one has been an inspiration to our girl for a couple of reasons. One is the obvious air of style and aplomb that she exudes. But mostly it's to do with the 'O' part of her name. Y'see our Jackie loves to make that very shape with her mouth. Strange, eh?
